Cable tie 2.4x92 UV bl TYZ523M, Strap width=2.29 mm, Strap length=91.95 mm, Strap thickness=1.02 mm, Max bundle diameter=16 mm, Min holding force=80 N, Operating temperature=-46...150 °C, design=internal toothing, strap fastener=steel nose, material=plastic, material quality=other, surface=untreated, UV-stable according to ASTM D6779=no, halogen-free=no, color=other, transparent=no, reflective (luminous color)=no, labeling area=without, detachable closure=no, type of fastening=without, VG approval=no, MIL approval=no, UL approval=no, The Ty-Rap steel nose cable tie made of fluoropolymer ETFE is characterized by its high resistance to solvents, chemicals, acids, bases, oils and radioactivity. In addition, it does not outgas and is therefore ideal for use in zero gravity. The high-temperature-resistant cable tie is suitable for applications in nuclear power plants, in medical technology and in the chemical industry. The corrosion-resistant, anti-magnetic, Type 316 stainless steel nose in the cable tie head guarantees the strongest and most secure hold on the market. The powerful and reliable Ty-Rap can be used in the most adverse conditions such as vibration, heat or cold. The rounded edges and contours of the head and the tie ensure user-friendly handling and prevent the insulation of the cables and wires from being damaged by sharp edges or serrations. In addition, the smooth body with no grid teeth or grooves reduces the number of overstressed areas. The slight nubs on the inside of the strap ensure that the tie sits firmly on the cable bundle. A large selection of accessories complements the range.
